New procedure for storing car control handles

Ammunition cans have been installed on all cars in the operating fleet.

The can will be used for storage of control handles. The bins in the substation will no longer be used.

The ammo cans will be found in the same area of the car as the fire extinguisher and/or accident kit. Exceptions will be noted as required.

It remains the crew's responsibility to be responsible for the handles, and to return them to the box at the end of the operating day. The box lid should be closed with the latch provided. No other materials are to be placed in the box.

Your cooperation in utilizing this new system will be appreciated.
